Venus Remedies has been awarded a tender by UNICEF for supplying ceftriaxone (1gm), a beta-lactam antibiotic, in dry powder form.

Ceftriaxone dry powder is an important drug in Venus Remedies' extensive antibiotic portfolio. Moreover, ceftriaxone is an important antibiotic globally due to its broad-spectrum activity and effectiveness in treating a variety of serious bacterial infections. The global ceftriaxone market was valued at US$ 1.7 billion in 2021 and is expected to grow at a CAGR of 2.9% from 2022 to 2031 to reach over US$ 2.2 billion by the end of 2031.

In another development crucial to improving healthcare outcomes in Latin America, Venus Remedies Ltd has also been awarded an oncology tender by the WHO-backed Pan American Health Organisation (PAHO), the world's oldest international public health agency. The company has been entrusted with the responsibility of supplying a wide range of essential oncology drugs like bleomycin, carboplatin, cisplatin, cytarabine, doxorubicin, irinotecan, methotrexate and vincristine.

The company said that its collaboration with UNICEF and its inceptive agreement with the PAHO tender authority, signify a notable milestone for Venus Remedies, enhancing its contribution to global health initiatives and reinforcing its commitment to improving global health outcomes by providing life-saving medicines to those who need them the most.

Saransh Chaudhary, president, global critical care, Venus Remedies, said, "Our association with the PAHO is a monumental step in our mission to deliver high-quality, innovative oncology products to those in dire need. Further, securing the tender with UNICEF reflects our relentless pursuit of excellence and our commitment to improving health outcomes worldwide. Building on such prestigious orders, we will also continue to strengthen our international presence."

Having exported pharmaceuticals worth about US$ 16 billion in the financial year 2023-2024, India is the world's largest provider of generic drugs. In terms of volumes, Indian drugs comprised 20 per cent of the global generic drug exports. Venus Remedies is playing a key role in this export market, contributing to India's growing influence, particularly in the global oncology sector.

Aditi K Chaudhary, president, international business, Venus Remedies, said these tenders are a significant endorsement of the company's vision to provide accessible, high-quality healthcare solutions. "This much-coveted endorsement from UNICEF is a significant prospect for Venus' mission of contributing towards global health. Moreover, association with PAHO reinforces our position as an important player in the global oncology market and underscores our commitment to catering to the Latin American region, which is facing critical challenges in cancer care," she said.

UNICEF has awarded a sizable tender to Venus Remedies Limited, a leading pharmaceutical company operating on a global scale, to provide the dry powder version of the antibiotic ceftriaxone. This follows three months after the company received the highly sought-after Good Manufacturing Practices (GMP) certificate from the UN Agency.

The beta-lactam antibiotic ceftriaxone is effective against many different types of harmful bacteria. The global market value exceeded USD 2.2 billion by 2031 and reached USD 1.7 billion in 2021, demonstrating its relevance. Venus Remedies' extensive antibiotic portfolio, which includes ceftriaxone, enables effective treatment of a wide range of illnesses.

The World Health Organisation (WHO) has endorsed the Pan American Health Organisation (PAHO), another public health organisation that has secured a contract from Venus Remedies. The firm's delivery of important cancer treatments, including bleomycin, carboplatin, cisplatin, and others, will significantly impact Latin American healthcare.

All of these achievements prove that Venus Remedies is an indispensable ally in the fight for healthcare throughout the world. "Our partnership with PAHO signifies a turning point in our dedication to offering cutting-edge cancer treatments to people who are in critical need," said Saransh Chaudhary, President of Global Critical Care at Venus Remedies. Our steadfast commitment to achieving excellence and bettering global health outcomes is evident in the agreement we secured with UNICEF.

In fiscal year 2023–2024, India's pharmaceutical industry exported over USD 16 billion worth of generic drugs, making it the world's largest provider of these medications. Twenty per cent of the generic medications exported globally come from India. One example of India's growing influence in international healthcare is Venus Remedies, a prominent player in this sector, especially in the cancer market.
